At a time of my life when things were not so good I had a good friend come into my life which was David. We became very good friends and lived across from each other. We did so much together and laughed often. We looked forward to the weekend to see what we were going to do. I was so shocked when I went to try to reconnect with him after 20 years and am so sad I couldnt. I love you David and will throw some prayers your way. You are in a much better place.
