My deepest sympathies to the Bass and Sallee families in the loss of their beloved sister Elizabeth Jackmon. I knew her for most of my life as a dear and cherished friend. She was always "Mae" to me. I visited her several times at the nursing home and she always greeted me with her beautiful smile. She will be greatly missed. Take comfort that she is one of the newest angels in heaven and looking down on all those she loved.

Butch and Robin, we just heard about your mother. She was a friend many years with Mary as they worked together at Lenoir and of course, Butch I have enjoyed comparing mother stories over the years with you. Your mother will be thought positively of by many, especially in the old New Haven neighborhood.
